StixCamp is a workshop, unconference-style, hosted outside an urban region.

During the workshop local and global communities will engage in open standards for development.

Organised by:

In collaboration with:

More information and registration: www.open.org.pt